In 2 Corinthians 4:16-18 Paul encourages us, “Therefore, we do not lose heart. Though outwardly we are wasting away, yet inwardly we are being renewed day by day. For our light and momentary troubles are achieving for us an eternal glory that far outweighs them all. So we fix our eyes not on what is seen, but on what is unseen, since what is seen is temporary, but what is unseen is eternal.” Paul sought to encourage the Corinthian Christians in 2 Corinthians 4:16-18. Paul himself faced many difficult and challenging situations throughout his Christian life (2 Cor. 11:22-29), but amazingly, he refers to them as light and momentary. Why? Paul caught a glimpse of the indescribable paradise (2 Cor 12:1-4) and lived knowing that our present sufferings cannot compare to the glory that will be revealed in us (Romans 8:18). While we have not gotten a personal view of heaven, we can be encouraged through Paul. So, when we feel discouraged or overwhelmed, we can look to the future and be hopeful in Christ. Paul also challenges us in this passage, urging us to keep our gaze fixed on eternity. This is a significant challenge, as the devil is constantly at work, seeking to divert our attention from the glory that awaits. The devil's strategy is to lure us into placing our trust in earthly things and to focus on our present pain and suffering. However, the apostle reminds us that what is visible and tangible is temporary and fleeting while the unseen is eternal. Therefore, to inherit that which is far greater as a child of God, I must live with my eyes fixed on the eternal and not become anxious over our current suffering.
