In Matthew 5:14-15 Jesus tells us, "You are the light of the world. A town built on a hill cannot be hidden. Neither do people light a lamp and put it under a bowl. Instead, they put it on its stand, and it gives light to everyone in the house."

In today's culture, the word "influencer" often refers to people with large social media followings who use their platforms to promote products or lifestyles. However, long before social media existed, Jesus declared that every believer is called to be an influencer—not for brands or trends but for God's kingdom.

Jesus calls us "the light of the world." Light is meant to shine, to guide, and to reveal. As followers of Christ, we are meant to live in such a way that we influence the world around us with God's love and truth. Our actions, words, and choices are the platform from which we shine, even if we don't have thousands of followers.

Being an influencer for Christ doesn't mean doing something grand or extraordinary. It means faithfully reflecting on Jesus in our everyday lives. When we live out the fruit of the Spirit—love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control—we influence those around us in ways that can have an eternal impact.

Jesus also reminds us that light is meant to be visible. We shouldn't hide our faith or downplay who we are in Christ. Our lives should be beacons, pointing people to the hope and salvation found in Him. As we let our light shine, we influence others to see God's goodness and glory.
